

Unofficial

Midhope, 20th Jan. 1886

Dear Sir,

I regret that a slight indisposition caused my absence yesterday from the Mint, and I think that due prudence admonishes me to add another day to the Idle list. I hope however to be in my place on Friday, unless a melting Deluge should intervene; for in this season, ^{the fact of} consecutive days of 0° temperature bars all possibility of conjecture for the days yet to come. I feel however no anxiety about my Dept of the Mint, confident that the wheels are all well oiled for smooth running for a day or two at least.

Very truly yours
J. E. Booth

Hon. D. M. Fox
Superintendent

Unofficial

Midhope,
January 20, 1886

Dear Sir,

I regret that a slight indisposition caused my absence yesterday from the Mint, and I think that due prudence admonishes me to add another day to the Idle list. I hope however to be in my place on Friday, unless a Melting Deluge should intervene; for in this Season, the fact of 6 consecutive days of 0° temperature bars all possibility of conjecture for the days yet to come. I feel however no anxiety about my Dept. of the Mint, confident that the wheels are all well oiled for smooth running for a day or two at least.

Very truly yours,
Jas. C. Booth

Hon. D.M. Fox
Superintendent